We have been blind, as were the people of the Roman empire and other cultures. We have been alplain our faith in the daily details, and in men or events, rather than in the spiritual strength to which we once turned so often. Without such a red defication, our future has no logical promise.

FERTILITY PROGRAMME FOR FEED GRAINS

According to noted soils authority with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, an increase in Ontario's feed grain production is within reach.

"The answer doesn't lie in seeding more acres to coarse grains next spring, but rather in higher yields per acres," according to Professor N. R. Richards, Head of the Soil Science Department at the Ontario Agricultural College.

The first step toward higher yields is to use fertilizer on more acres at a higher rate, believes Professor Richards. He says that the average of the subsubsels per acre. and many farmers get an average of 70 bushels per acre. They rely on good management practices along with adequate fertilizer.

Professor Richards says that other factors are just as important in economical production of feed grain. Adequate drainage and the use of new and improved grain varieties all help to increase yields.

SCHOOL MILK PROGRAM
NO ANSWER TO SURPLUS

Even if Canada were to carry out an extensive subsidized school milk program, the result would not substantially reduce the amount of milk going into the manufacture of dairy products — but it would help some under-nourished children.

A long-term policy of development aided by large grants has brought school milk consumption in the United States up to four percent of total Rulid sales for the country.

These are some of the conclusions reached by L. E. Drayton, S. E. Kidd and D. W. Oke of the Economics Division of the Canada Department of Agriculture, who recently concluded a study on school milk plans.

School milk programs don't just happen — they require intelligent and enthusiastic leadership, say the sauthors. In Windsor, Ont., the or city of four surveyed where dairies have long been active in promoting milk service to schools, the participation rate of 230 percent and the concumption rate of 230 unces per child enrolled, appear to be the highest in Canada.

A seat beit can greatly reduce your chances of serious injury in a traffic accident, according to the Ontario Motor League, which urged motorists in Ontario to have seat belts installed in their cars and use them.

The OML quoted an Indiana study of 495 fatal accidents which showed that 47 per cent of persons killed were ejected through the door of the car. It emphasized that seat belts prevent this danger as well as the possibility of being thrown against the windshield or other unyielding objects in the car.

"Seat belts are especially effective in crashes at moderate speeds," said the OML, "and it is important to note that 45 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents occur at speeds under 40 m.p.h. The effectiveness of seat belts

SOME IDEAS FOR HIGH CORN YIELDS.

Last year Ontario farmers raised grain corn yields to the all time high average of 73.4 bushels per acre. This is an increase of nearly 15 bushels per acre over the previous ten year average.

In spite of the high yields in 1961 some field crops specificits with the Ontario Department of Agriculture feel it is possible that some farmers can raises their corn yield. They say these may help:

Corn requires good, well-drained soll. Shallow, poorly-drained soll. Shallow, poorly-drained soll of the high yields and use up all the Ontario Department of Agriculturing on Degumes present will supply up to 100 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre for corn. A grass sod with little or no legumes present will supply very little nitrogen. Plowing underscens stalks will reb the soll of nitrogen. This means adding extra nitrogen fit you grow corn on corn.

Prepare a good seedbed, but don't work the field any more than necessary. A powdery seedbed may cement over with heavy rains. This forms a crust over the roots and prevents penetration of air and soil narreduces yields.

Select adapted hybrid varieties. Don't stretch the season, but choose, a variety that will mature every year. Prick Hybrids suited to your area from "1961 Ontario Hybrid Corn Performance Trials", available at your Agricultural Representative's Office.

Fertilizer requirements are best determined by soil testing. A band application of 200 pounds of 8-16-16 or the equivalent is always needed.
